

Bill might be tabled in Parliament in the ongoing session.

The Public Utility (Resolution of Disputes) Bill contains a number of clauses to ensure contractual disputes between private partners and government agencies get resolved in a time-bound and institutional manner. Among other things, the Bill will seek establishment of sector-specific tribunals and monitoring agencies independent of the government, Business Standard arrangements for resolution of disputes in infrastructure-related construction contracts, PPP and public utility contracts," he had said. "The work on the draft Bill is almost complete. It is being circulated in various ministries for feedback and will be placed before the cabinet for approval soon. We are hoping it will be tabled in the ongoing session itself," said an official.

A number of clauses are said to be similar to the recommenthese regulators independent public sector interference. "Essentially, institutional frameworks cannot be applied for all sectors. The challenges for roads are different from ports, for example. Hence, separate frameworks are needed for resolving disputes in various sectors," said the official. The announcement of Dispute Resolution Bill is only one part of a broader infrastructure reform package by Jaitley in his Budget speech. He had also announced formulation of new guidelines for negotiation of PPP concession agreements, and a new project-specific credit rating system.

Government to set up special court for NSEL cases

INDIVJAL DHASMANA
New Delhi, 24 July

The government has decided to set up a special court to hear all cases related to the National Spot Exchange Ltd (NSEL) on a priority basis. It has also asked the Enforcement Directorate (ED) to expedite action to recover ₹3,721 crore from defaulters, and the Securities and Exchange Board of India (Sebi) to complete the probe on brokers at the earliest.

Besides, the Ministry of Corporate Affairs (MCA) has been directed to pursue the court case expeditiously for
